FROM THE EDITOR

Cannabis Tech is proud to be one of the longest-running publications in the industry. With thousands of articles, hundreds of interviews, and, by now, millions of readers, we've grown alongside an industry that's transformed in ways once unimaginable. Just think, when we first began publishing, cannabis was still largely in the shadows—legal in only a handful of places. Not only is the reverse true today, but cannabis has actually become a polite topic of conversation among friends, family members, and even coworkers.

As crazy as it may seem to those of us who have been here for years, cannabis and cannabis technology have not only made their way into the public psyche but are now infused into our holiday gift-giving traditions. I'm not just making this up — according to some reports, roughly 1 in 4 Americans gave the gift of cannabis last year.

And cannabis-inspired gift-giving is no longer a batch of questionable brownies or a few dusty joints handed out at a party. Today, we are spoiled for choice with high-tech, high-concept, and highly innovative products now readily available.

With Cannabis Tech's decade of history writing about the science, change makers, and technologies driving the cannabis industry forward, we've compiled everything we've learned into our highly anticipated 5th Annual 2024 Cannabis Tech Gift Guide.

As you ponder what to give all the cannabis lovers in your life, click through the pages to find that perfect cannabis-inspired goodie for everyone on your list.

Here's to another year of lighting up your holiday season,

CONTENT & SEO DIRECTOR

One of the very first times I smoked a joint as a teenager, with the smoke wafting around my group of friends, I came to a realization. Like smell is known to do, I had a flashback to a moment in my childhood, running around someone's backyard with all my cousins and our parents nearby. Suddenly, the smell of a joint burning told me something crucial about my family — they weren't smoking cigarettes (this was the '80s, after all). My family smoked weed.

Even with this core memory unlocked, it took me another decade to start talking to my father about his long, illustrious life with cannabis. He comes from a generation where weed was bad, even criminal, so the barriers he felt talking to his daughter about cannabis took a few years to overcome.

But as my writing work took me deeper and deeper into the now-legal cannabis industry, he slowly started to open up. While he still may reference cannabis on the phone under a code name (it's tomatoes, in case you were wondering), we now readily swap growing tips. Most importantly, I finally know exactly what's on his Christmas list: cannabis seeds.

By Jessica McKeil

But now, I'm ready to pass on this tradition to you and yours.

GROWING YOUR OWN, A FAMILY TRADITION

As my tolerance has changed in my thirties, I've come to love CBD-driven genetics. But I also love to grow for my partner, so I'm experimenting with high-color cultivars next year.

What is on my father's Christmas list? After all his decades with weed, he has never given up on sativas. His favorite thing to do in his retirement is to spend a long, active day puttering around the yard, fueled by his favorite plant. And now, I can help keep it going.

So, this year, when you are stuck on what to get your father, mother, or any of the other cannabis lovers on your list, here is a new idea. Pop a few seeds in a card and watch their face light up as they open it. It's time we all started giving the gift that gives back.

GIFT INSPO FOR HOME GROWS

Upgrade their home grow with Happy Hydro

Chances are, someone in your family is growing weed at home. Maybe they've got a few plants thriving in a grow closet, or perhaps they casually plant some alongside the carrots in their summer garden. With roughly 25 states now allowing home cultivation, it's not a stretch to imagine that Uncle Ted in Minnesota or Cousin Debbie in Vermont has tried their hand at growing cannabis.

This year, help them improve their home grow with a few upgrades they'd never get for themselves. Better trimmers, automatic watering systems, or humidity packs are easy ways to take the home grow to the next level.

And for the DIYer with the basics on lock, send them a Nug Smasher this holiday season to blow their socks off.

THE ULTIMATE STOCKING STUFFER

E1011 LABS IVEN™ DRY HERB VAPORIZER

- Price: $59.99
- Dimensions: 4.29" Length
- Key features: One-Click Control, Compact, Heat Not Burn
- What we liked: Sleek Design, Comfortable to Hold, Easy to Operate

E1011 Labs developed the iven™ Dry Herb Vaporizer, a compact and affordably priced device promising heat-not-burn technology. It boasts temperature control (four settings), heat-resistant materials, and a sleek design that slides comfortably into a pocket for use on the go.

E1011 Labs designed this device to ensure we can all “take iven and the power of vaporization” to wherever life takes us.

Its portability and comfortable design are definite wins, especially packed with temperature control options (many brands with this feature feel clunkier in the hand). The casing design is also more sophisticated than the usual cheap herb vaporizers bedazzled with logos and distractions. The E1011 Labs iven™ exterior is simple, smooth, and elevated.

MY CANNABIS TECH STACK

By Christine Tullio

This year, harvest time has been especially rewarding. My small home grow—a modest setup I’ve been working on for years— thrived as I experimented with the VerteFarm. Just one cycle in, it has already transformed how I grow, taking so much of the guesswork out of the process.

Now that it’s time to bring the plants in, I’ve decided to make bubble hash from this year’s harvest. Turning the plants I’ve nurtured from seed into something so special feels like the perfect way to honor all the effort that went into the grow. There’s something deeply satisfying about closing the loop on a grow cycle by processing your own cannabis into hash—it’s more than just a product; it’s a celebration of the entire journey.

For those who grow or know someone who does, I wanted to share a peek into my home-grown cannabis tech stack.

These are a few of the tools and products I've been using over the past year, and I've loved every second of it. After years in the industry, testing countless products designed for home growers, these are the ones that have stood the test of time and made the cut.

If you're as passionate about tech as I am, you'll find some inspiration here to upgrade your next harvest.
